This question of where to buy one's Fall Suit is, after all, a simple one, even for the visitor unacquainted with actual conditions. It is merely a case of "comparison and elimination"—certainly not a problem for the man of nice discernment in the matter of correct apparel.

$20, $25, $30

are three of the most popular lines, and in these we have developed qualities and values that have given rise to expressions of astonishment, even from those who have learned to expect much from suit offerings bearing the "P. B." label. The fabric qualities and patterns are unusual—some entirely exclusive with "P. B."—and the details of construction and the style are beyond criticism.

The gridiron warriors representing the University of North Carolina arrived in town last night and are all in the pink of condition for the big game this afternoon against Georgetown. The Tarheels are reputed to have the strongest team in the history of the institution, and are bent on taking the scalp of Georgetown. This afternoon's contest will be doubly interesting, for, besides being the first big game that the local lovers of the sport can witness, it will practically decide the championship between the two teams, which for the past five years has been in doubt. Last year the two teams battled to a 6-to-6 tie, and before that the games stood two apiece in the series. Both eleven are stronger than last year, and both are confident of victory. Last Saturday the Tarheels were defeated 3 to 0 by the Virginia Military Institute, but it was through the instrumentality of one man, a great drop kicker. Both teams are strong contenders for the football championship of the South, and a 2-to-2 game will mean much to the Hilltoppers if they can capture it. The game will be called promptly at 3 o'clock, and when the whistle blows for the first half the largest crowd of the season is expected to be on hand. Coach Newman had his charges out yesterday afternoon in the final practice for the game with North Carolina. To-day, for an hour the men ran practice drills and various new trick plays which the Hilltoppers will spring on the Southerners.

The outlook is a little blue, for two of their best men are laid up and will hardly get into the game, while a third is in bad shape and will probably not be able to put up the star game that he is accustomed to play. Capt. Stuart sprained his ankle in practice Thursday, and the injury is so painful that the gritty little leader will be compelled to watch his team mates do the work from the sidelines. Cunniff's case of poisoning was no better yesterday afternoon, and all hope has been abandoned of his being able to play this afternoon. McQuill, last year's prep star, will take his place at center. Joe McNulty, on whom the Blue and Gray contingent is relying to gain most of their ground, is still lame, as the result of last Saturday's game against Richmond College, and he will be much handicapped in today's contest. The Tarheels are coached by Arthur Brides, the famous Yale half back and tackle, who has been working hard to whip the team into shape. Mr. Brides says that his men are in fine shape, and that he expects to give Georgetown a good run for their money.

HATCHETTES ARE PRIMED.

George Washington Ready for To-day's Struggle Against M. A. C. American League Park will be the scene of a very interesting game to-day, when the Maryland Aggies line up against the heavy local team from George Washington. M. A. C. being the lighter team, has been working hard on trick plays and forward passes, while George Washington, realizing that to succeed it must adopt the new game, has spent the entire month on new plays and formations. On the locals, Crafts will be seen back in his old place, where he intends to add more to his already fine list of achievements. Farmer will start the game at full back. That gritty player is somewhat handicapped by the lack of length to legs and arms, but otherwise he is there with the football spirit. Hign will also get a chance to show his prowess in the middle of the back field, and from now on a fierce struggle will be waged for that position. Hooten has not been out enough this week to grasp the changes in signals and formations, so next week will see him also striving at full back. Whitting goes in at right end and much is expected of him. Barney Cooper, who won such honors for himself at M. A. C. two years ago, is now coaching the Aggies, and if the team has become infused with his spirit and dash they surely can be relied to put forth every effort to win against any kind of odds. The probable line-up is as follows:

M. A. C. Positions. W. U.
Kemp.....left tackle.....Hart
Peep.....left guard.....Powell
Ward.....center.....Brandt, Bullough
Taylor.....right guard.....Eichhoff
Andrew.....right tackle.....Alton
Munson.....right end.....Whitting
Munson.....quarter back.....Morse
Strong.....left half back.....Crafts
Shipley.....full back.....Ellis
Sylvester.....right half back.....Fowler or Horn

PREPS PLAY CAIRO ELEVEN.

Close Contest Expected This Afternoon on Georgetown Field. The Georgetown Prep football team will line up this afternoon for their second game this week against the strong Cairo Athletic Club eleven of this city. As this team has defeated Western by a score of 11 to 6, and as the high school lads played the Blue and Gray boys to a standstill several days ago, a stiff battle should take place. Capt. Kerwin, who was injured again in the game against the Agriculture eleven last Wednesday, will be unable to play. Murphy, the star end, who has been doing the punting for the team this year, is laid up with a sprained ankle, received while practicing with the basketball team Thursday night. Next Wednesday the Georgetown lads go to Alexandria to play Episcopal High School and by that time it is thought that both Kerwin and Murphy will be able to get in the game.

WESTERN IS VICTOR

Business Beaten in Second
Game of Series.

THE SCORE IS 12 TO 6

Business Captain and Quarter Back Is Out of Line-up, and His Absence Proves Serious Drawback to Team. Western Offsets Weight with Speed and Consistent Playing.

In the second game of the high school series, Western won a decisive victory over Business yesterday, by 12 to 6. The Stenographers were outplayed, and Western had the advantage of a better general, Capt. Davis being out of the game for Business. The Georgetown boys scored two touchdowns and a safety, and almost during the entire game kept the Stenographers in their own territory. There was no open playing or anything resembling tricks used by either team, most of the gains being made by line-bucking, in which Western easily proved the stronger and more aggressive.

At the start of the game, Western sent the ball straight up the field, and got within striking distance of the Business goal. The large gains mainly be accredited to fumbles made by the Stenographers, for the Western ends were always ready to pick up the oval on a miscue. Within the first minute and a half of play, Guy was able to make an attempt at a drop kick from the 30-yard line, but Scott, of Business, broke through the line in through left tackle, and destroyed the aim. Business chose to scrimmage on the 25-yard line, and after being held for two downs, attempted to punt. Rawlings' kick was blocked, and a Western man fell on the ball, on the Stenographer's 10-yard line. Business took a strong brace, but could not stop the hard plunges of Scott. After being held for two downs, Scott was sent over for the first touchdown of the game. Guy failed in his attempt to kick. Business lined up to receive, and Stone booted the pignish to Scott on the 5-yard line. The right half made a pretty run of 20 yards before he was thrown. Rathbone made in through left tackle, and then the Western line held and the ball went over. Guy made a wide end run of 8 yards, and Stone made it first down by hitting right tackle for 5 more. Guy tried another end run, but Rawlings made a hard tackle, and "Mickey" was thrown for a loss of 10 yards. Western was then held for downs. The Western line was strong and held against almost every play, but the Business quarter back insisted on kicking, and they were held for downs. Upton punted and Scott ran the punt back in a dodging run for 25 yards.

Rawlings Punt to Guy.

Rawlings then punted to Guy on the 40-yard line, where he was promptly tackled. Western punted to Business on the 40-yard line, and they were held for downs. Upton punted, and Stone ran the punt back in a dodging run for 15 yards, where Lully was thrown for a loss of 10 yards. Hughes made an on-side kick and the ball was caught by Stone on the 40-yard line. At the next line-up, the ball was called and the half ended with the score 5 to 0, in favor of Western. The game was full of punting, and in this Upton was far better than Rawlings. The Business player is a novice, having the left side of the Western line. The efficiency of the team was a large factor in the score. In the second half, however, his booting was stronger and not as many of his tries were blocked as in the first period. The game was a close one, and the Western line, which has been even chance of beating the Quakers. Another attractive card on the programme is the Princeton-Lafayette contest at Princeton. The Easterns have made a fine showing to date, and have one of the best eleven they have had in recent years. In New York the climbing Fordhamites will take on the Swarthmore eleven at American League Park, and since holding Princeton to 3 points and beating Cornell, Fordham does not look for anything but a victory to-morrow. Yale's opponent for the day is Colgate, whom the Blue never has met, but who has an exceedingly good football record. The game booked for Harvard marks the beginning of a gruelling stretch of battles for the Crimson, Brown being the opponent scheduled. Brown has been trying hard to patch up the weaknesses made manifest in the Pennsylvania game, and is anxious to give the Crimson a harder fight than was put forth against Pennsylvania, although the Pennsylvanians had their hands full. Some of the games scheduled for to-morrow are:

Harvard vs. Brown, at Cambridge; Yale vs. Colgate, at New Haven; Princeton vs. Lafayette, at Princeton; Pennsylvania vs. Pennsylvania State, at Philadelphia; West Point vs. Lehigh, at West Point; Navy vs. Virginia, at Annapolis; Amherst vs. Dartmouth, at Amherst; Williams vs. Mass., at Amherst; Cornell vs. Cornell, at Ithaca; Syracuse vs. Niagara, at Syracuse; Fordham vs. St. John's, at New York; University vs. Stevens, at Hoboken; Holy Cross vs. Boston, at Worcester; Bucknell vs. West Virginia, at Morgantown; Colby vs. Bates, at Lewiston; Gettysburg vs. Delaware, at Gettysburg; Dickinson vs. Ursinus, at Collegeville; Georgetown vs. North Carolina, at Washington; George Washington vs. Maryland, at Washington; Wesleyan vs. Hamilton, at Middletown; Franklin and Marshall vs. Haverford, at Lancaster; Rutgers vs. Middle-Chlorical, at New Brunswick; Trinity vs. Norwich, at Hartford; Union vs. Rochester, at Schenectady; Washington and Jefferson vs. Westminster, at Washington, Pa.

Gonzaga Team Easy.

The Knickerbocker Athletic Club, of Georgetown, yesterday took the Gonzaga team into camp with the score 20 to 0. The victors were outwitted. The line players of Donahue was easily the best work seen on Gonzaga field this season. Eckendorfer's open field running was exceptional. Martin, Brewer, Wise, and Case were also stars. The Knickerbockers challenge any team in the District with an average weight of 110 pounds.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TO-DAY

Penn State Expects to Beat Pennsylvanians Eleven.

Yale Plays Colgate and Harvard in Up Against Brown—Other Battles of Interest.

New York, Oct. 22.—Most important of to-morrow's football fixtures hereabouts is the Pennsylvania-Pennsylvania State game, to be played on Franklin Field. There are several other games of class on the schedule, too, but if reports coming from State College are true, the play-ers from there, coached by Bill Hollen-back, think they have an even chance of beating the Quakers. Another attractive card on the programme is the Princeton-Lafayette contest at Princeton. The Easterns have made a fine showing to date, and have one of the best eleven they have had in recent years. In New York the climbing Fordhamites will take on the Swarthmore eleven at American League Park, and since holding Princeton to 3 points and beating Cornell, Fordham does not look for anything but a victory to-morrow. ## "I'LL BEAT JOHNSON"

Jeffries Home at Last and Talks Fight.

LOOKS IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Boxmaker Declares that He Will Sign Articles at Once for Battle Next Spring, and Is Willing to Go Into Ring, Winner to Take All. Wants to Bet $10,000 on Side.

New York, Oct. 22.—"I will fight Johnson, and I will beat him easily." In response to a volley of questions, James J. Jeffries made this positive assertion this morning as he stepped down the gang-plank from the big Cunarder Lusitania. A crowd of 5,000 persons gathered to welcome the former champion of the world, who has been spending two months or more in Europe, and when the fellow appeared he got a warm reception. Jeff and his wife were met by Sam Berger and several close friends at the pier, while the crowd surged around them, cheering enthusiastically.

Jeffries looked to be in far better condition than when he left here last August after a twenty weeks' vaudeville engagement. His complexion was clear and healthy, and as he stood shaking hands with everybody in reach he looked as if he was ready to fight at a moment's notice. The old punch was not in evidence, there was no roll of fat under the chin, and the powerful frame seemed as durable as in the days, six years ago, when such pugilists as Corbett, Sharkey, and Fitzsimmons were beaten into submission. Jeff's grasp was like a vice, and there were many who took the trouble to inspect the huge maulers that were soon come in contact with Jack Johnson's anatomy.

Says He Weighs 232 Pounds.

"I'm feeling fine," said Jeffries, with a good-natured smile. "In fact, I was never better. I weigh 232 pounds now, but I was several pounds lighter two weeks ago. The increase in weight is due to the trip across the Atlantic, during which I could not keep up my daily vigorous exercise." "Are you going to fight the negro?" asked everybody who could struggle near the boxmaker. "Jeffries lost his smile immediately. His face was a scowl for a moment and his great jaw showed pugnacity as he growled: "I'll fight him sure, and I'll knock him out quick. Johnson is not such a great pugilist as some people believe. He's felled a lot of second-raters and little fellows, but if he ever gets into the ring with me I'll give him a beating that will settle this question forever. He's a four-flusher, and is a h— of a champion."

"When will you be ready to fight?" "Some time in March or April," replied the big pugilist, earnestly. "I know by that time I can get in great trim, and I intend to be right so that there will be no slip-ups. I am ready to sign articles now. I will be here this moment, I'd put my name to papers and clinch the match, but that will be all fixed up in a few days."

Will Box, Winner Take All.

"I will agree to let the winner take all, but as I think Johnson should be allowed to have something to cover expenses, I'll agree to a division of the purse, 75 per cent to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser. Any legitimate offer from a responsible club will look good to me, and I will also bet $10,000 on the side if Johnson wants it that way. It isn't true that I said I'd insist on a $100,000 purse. I'll fight for the largest purse that we can get, but it must be hung up by a club that can pull off the fight without interference. I'll agree to any number of rounds and will go to a finish. There will be no chance for a hitch if Johnson is on the level, for I intend to be fair and mean business."

Will you get on these scales and show us how much you weigh?" asked a man close to Jeffries' elbow.

"You know me, Joe from Missouri." The former champion turned sharply on his questioner, and with a flash of anger, exclaimed: "My word is good. There isn't a man here who can make me get on the scales." In the twinkling of an eye the little fellow backed away, while the crowd had a good laugh. More inquiries as to Jeff's opinion of Johnson served to increase his apparent anger, until he made some remarks decidedly uncomplimentary to the formidable negro. Their several friends quickly changed the subject.

Saw Corbett in London.

"I had a great time on the other side," continued Jeff. "I saw Jim Corbett in London, and he agreed with me that Johnson is overrated and a piece of punk. I spent some time at the race tracks, and found that the bookmakers were easy to beat. In eleven out of twelve days I won money on the horses, which more than paid current expenses. But I had to tip waiters, cab drivers, bell boys, and other servants until I was weary. You can just bet that I'm glad to get back to America, the only real country in the world. I haven't had time to talk with Berger, my manager, yet, but whatever arrangements he has made about the fight will be satisfactory to me."

Jeff and his party then made a beeline for a Broadway Hotel, where the boxmaker received another ovation. The crowd cheered him to the echo, and he seemed very happy. He said he was glad to know that American and Promoter Coffroth were making tracks for this city, and declared that he would be ready to make the match at the proposed conference. He called attention to the fact that he had a $5,000 forfeit up with a local stakeholder, and stated that the money would be transferred to anybody mutually acceptable to bind articles of agreement. Many sporting men called on Jeffries during the day and evening to congratulate him on his decision to fight again. The big fellow's condition and the fact that a battle with Johnson now seems to be a certainty created plenty of enthusiasm. It was said that Jeff might appear in vaudeville for a few weeks after signing articles, but that he would begin hard training at least three months before the date of the mill. He will probably go to California to enjoy outdoor life for a while, and then establish training quarters at Harbin Springs.

SPORTING SIDELIGHTS

By BILL BAILEY.

There is talk of abolishing football at the Naval Academy on account of the injury to Quarter Back Wilson. This will doubtless prove good news to West Point.

What became of the popular notion of erecting a monument to Joe Gans? Last accounts Joseph was able to sit up and take notice, and although reported to be suffering from rheumatism, he is able to ring a cash register at his Baltimore hotel.

Now that Ketchell is through fooling around the big fellows, Sam Langford is reminding him of a former engagement. Fight fans in Washington would hock the family heirlooms to see this bout.

North Carolina's football team, which meets Georgetown this afternoon, is coached by Arthur Brides, the famous Yale half back and tackle. Last year Greene, the former Pennsylvania captain, had charge of the Tarheels, and did not make much of a success as a coach.

Hats off to little Mickey Guy and the plucky Western High School football team. Outwitted in the line by Business, they were able to put the Stenographers to rout yesterday and score a notable victory.

It looks as if the north pole controversy was more a question of income than outcome.

Thank goodness the selection of Hugh Duffy as manager of the White Sox will mean that there will be no frantic appeals to Fielder Jones to come back, so clinging to hope that he would, no speculation as to whether he would or would not. All of which lifts one load off the public mind.

When the returning duck hunter tries to convince you that mud's properly cooked is better eating than mallard, there's a reason, and a palpable one.

Gallaudet faces the strong St. John's football team of Annapolis, to-day, and the Kendall Green boys are planning to hand out a surprise. Perhaps Battiste, the Indian, will tuck the ball under his jersey and punt the length of the field for a touchdown. Perhaps.

SONGS OF THE SEASON.

Navin ham's cooled out since the day they took his law.
The abrogation of the championship still rankles in his crew.
His faith on Hughes Jennings no longer does he Toss a wintry day for E. Yeh when he left Sum-

GALLAUDET PLAYS ST. JOHN'S.

Interesting Game This Afternoon at Kendall Green Field.

Gallaudet will line up against the St. John's College eleven, of Annapolis, this afternoon at Kendall Green in the second home game of the season.

Both eleven are fast and have made a good showing, and an interesting battle is anticipated.

Quarter Back Maxson will be out for the first time since the injury to his right ankle in Saturday's Fredericksburg game. If he cannot last through, the Indian, Battiste, will run the team.

Gardner, the veteran left tackle, will probably not be in the line-up, on account of a sore arm. Craven, the scrub tackle, may fill the place.

The back field will be the same as in the Fredericksburg game, as Capt. Hower will not take chances with his recently recovered injury. Acting Capt. Bailey will be at left half, Gledhill at full, and Moser at right half.

Gallaudet's probable line-up will be:

Battiste, l. e.; Craven, l. t.; Bell, l. g.; Talbert, c.; Cadwell, r. g.; Isaacson, r. t.; Rockwell, r. e.; Maxson, q. b.; Bailey (captain), l. h. b.; Gledhill, f. b.; Moser, r. h. b.

FOOTBALL PLAYER MAY DIE

Navy Star Sinking on Eve of Virginia Game.

Football Contest at Annapolis To-day Between Middles and Southerners May Be Called Off.

Special to The Washington Herald. Annapolis, Md., Oct. 22.—Football practice at the Naval Academy lasted only a few minutes this afternoon, as the news reached the squad that Quarter Back Wilson was in a precarious condition, and the midshipmen had little heart for the work.

Should Wilson die to-night or to-morrow before the game with the University of Virginia, it is probable that the contest will be called off, though it is not believed that the remainder of the schedule will be canceled, not matter what the outcome of Wilson's injuries.

The Virginia squad, consisting of eighteen players, stopped over in Washington last night, and will go to Annapolis via trolley to-day. When told about the condition of Quarter Back Wilson, the Southerners expressed deep regret and hoped that he would pull through. They will proceed to Annapolis this morning, unless word to the contrary is received.

MEETING A GREAT SUCCESS.

Baltimore Harness Season Closes with Large Attendance.
